Things to Consider When Purchasing Game of Thrones Swords

Before purchasing a Game of Thrones sword, it's important to consider a few factors to ensure you are making a wise investment. Here's what to keep in mind:

1. Quality of Materials

When buying a sword, check the materials used in its construction. Swords made of stainless steel or high-carbon steel tend to be more durable and maintain their appearance over time. Valyrian steel replicas are also popular but can vary significantly in quality.

2. Size and Weight

Consider the size and weight of the sword. A larger sword may look impressive, but it can also be heavier and less manageable. If you plan to display the sword, ensure it fits well with your decor.

3. Authenticity

Always verify the authenticity of the sword you are purchasing. Look for certificates of authenticity and product descriptions that detail its origins. This can help protect against counterfeit products.

4. Price Range

Game of Thrones swords can range significantly in price, from affordable replicas to high-end collector's items. Determine your budget beforehand to narrow down your options effectively.

Caring for Your Game of Thrones Sword

Once you've successfully added a Game of Thrones sword to your collection, proper care is essential to maintain its quality and appearance. Here are some tips for sword care:

1. Regular Cleaning

Dust and grime can accumulate on your sword over time. Use a soft cloth to gently clean the blade and hilt. Avoid using abrasive materials that could scratch the surface.

2. Proper Storage

Store your sword in a cool, dry place to prevent rust and corrosion. Consider using a display case or a wall mount to showcase your sword while keeping it protected.

3. Oil the Blade

To prevent rust, lightly oil the blade with a specialized sword oil. This will create a protective layer that keeps moisture at bay.

4. Avoid Handling Excessively

While it may be tempting to show off your sword to friends, excessive handling can lead to wear and tear. Limit handling to necessary maintenance and cleaning.
