Gathering Materials

Start by gathering essential materials, including:

- Stained glass sheets in various colors

Designing Your Pattern

The next step is to design your pattern. This can be done by sketching out ideas or using software to create a digital design. It is essential to consider how the colors and shapes will interact with light, as this will affect the final appearance of the stained glass piece.

Cutting and Assembling the Glass

Once the design is finalized, the glass can be cut according to the pattern. Each piece will need to be smoothed at the edges to ensure safety and proper assembly. After cutting, pieces can be assembled using lead came or copper foil, ensuring that all connections are secure.
