Setting Up the Board

1. Position the Board: Place the ouija board on a flat surface where all participants can comfortably reach it.
2. Light a Candle: Many practitioners light a candle or use incense to create a spiritual atmosphere. This can symbolize the welcoming of spirits.
3. Place the Planchette: Position the planchette in the center of the board, ensuring that it can move freely.

Starting the Session

1. Begin with a Prayer or Invocation: Some prefer to start with a prayer or invocation to protect the participants and invite only positive spirits. You might say something like, "We invite only benevolent spirits to communicate with us."
2. Ask Participants to Place Their Fingers on the Planchette: Have everyone gently place their fingers on the planchette without applying pressure.
3. Begin with Simple Questions: Start by asking simple yes or no questions to gauge the board's responsiveness. For example, "Is there anyone here with us?"

Reading the Responses

- Observe the Movements: Pay attention to any movements of the planchette. It may slowly slide to letters or numbers, spelling out words or phrases.
- Document the Responses: Keep a notebook handy to write down the messages received. This can help track the conversation and provide clarity on confusing responses.
- Remain Calm and Open: If the planchette moves unexpectedly or messages become unsettling, remain calm. It's important to maintain a respectful attitude toward any spirits communicating.

Ending the Session

1. Conclude with Gratitude: When you feel the session is complete, thank any spirits for their communication. This is crucial for closing the session respectfully.
2. Move the Planchette to Goodbye: Always end by moving the planchette to "goodbye" to signal to any spirits that the session has concluded.
