Notable Sneak Peek Excerpts

Janice Maynard frequently shares sneak peek excerpts from her upcoming works, allowing her audience to get a taste of what's to come. Here are some notable excerpts along with context and commentary from the author.

Excerpt from "The Heart of the Matter"

In one of her recent novels, "The Heart of the Matter," Maynard introduces readers to the character of Claire, who is navigating the complexities of her past while trying to build a future. An excerpt reads:

> "As Claire stood on the edge of the cliff, waves crashing below, she felt the weight of her choices pressing down on her. Could she truly leave the past behind, or was she destined to be haunted by the shadows of what once was?"

Author Comment: In discussing this excerpt, Maynard notes, "I wanted to capture that moment of reflection that many of us face when standing at a crossroads. Claire's journey is one of self-discovery, and I believe the setting mirrors her internal struggle."

Excerpt from "Love in the Details"

Another exciting sneak peek comes from her book "Love in the Details," where the protagonist, Jake, grapples with his feelings for his best friend:

> "Jake had always been the protector, the one who kept his emotions in check. But as he watched her laugh, carefree and beautiful, he realized that keeping his heart locked away was no longer an option."

Author Comment: Maynard explains, "Friendship turning into love is such a universal theme. I wanted to explore the fear of risking a cherished relationship for the chance at something deeper. Jake's character embodies that struggle beautifully."

Excerpt from "Second Chances"

In "Second Chances," Maynard delves into the complexities of rekindled romance:

> "It was never supposed to happen again. Yet, as their eyes met across the crowded room, the spark ignited like a flame long smothered. Could they really rewrite their story?"

Author Comment: Reflecting on this excerpt, Maynard shares, "The idea of second chances is something that resonates with many people. We often wonder if we can fix the mistakes of our past. This story is about hope and the courage to love again."
